IRELAND HAS HOPE ANNUITIES DISPUTE CAN BE ARBITRATED

De Valera Not So Insistent on International Tribunal—Premier Hertzog Mentioned as Possible Chairman—Irish Cabinet Approves Terms of Reply Expected to Reach London Monday

DUBLIN, July 2 (CP).—Strong hopes that the disputed question of land annuities may yet be arbitrated were held tonight following indications that President Eamon de Valera is backing down from his decision that, if they are to be arbitrated, it should be by an international tribunal.

It was indicated tonight that President Eamon de Valera might agree to having the annuities, defaulted by the Irish Free State yesterday to the amount of £1,500,000, arbitrated by a tribunal, the chairman of which, it is suggested, might be Prime Minister J. B. Hertzog of South Africa, who has already sent representations that the matter should be arbitrated.

REPRISALS EXPECTED
But, if it is finally found impossible to arbitrate the question, then President Eamon de Valera is expected to produce sweeping tariff measures in reprisal for the threatened new imports on Free State goods entering Great Britain, by which means Great Britain has indicated she will recoup the defaulted sums. The Free State President, in the event of failure to reach an agreement, is expected to call for a general election in which he would campaign on the tariff measures.

The Free State Cabinet tonight approved the terms of the reply to the British Government's note dealing with arbitration of annuities. The British Government declines to submit the matter to an international tribunal, insisting on an Empire body. The contents of the Irish note are not divulged, but are expected to reach London on Monday, when a concrete development in the present deadlock might be expected.

No one in Dublin believes the British Government will accept its threat of tariff reprisals against the Free State until the last hope of arbitration has vanished. At the same time the decision will probably have to be made on Monday, for next Tuesday evening the Irish Free State Special Duties Act is scheduled for introduction in the House of Commons.

NEW BRIDGE ON MAINLAND OPEN

$3,000,000 Structure Gives Vancouver Another Span Over False Creek

VANCOUVER, July 1 (CP).—The $3,000,000 Burrard Bridge was opened today, and like other people who open bridges, Vancouver citizens took occasion to take out of their past and future.

The first message of congratulation read at today's opening of Burrard Bridge was from Mayor Ralph Webb, of Winnipeg. This was followed by one from the mayor of Saint John, New Brunswick, from Hon. H. H. Stevens in Ottawa, and from other points in Canada and the United States.

CUTS SILKEN RIBBON
Mayor Louis D. Taylor performed the ceremony of opening the traffic by cutting the silken ribbon with a pair of golden shears. His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, the Hon. J. W. Fordham Johnson, and Hon. R. W. Bruhn, Minister of Public Works, gave addresses. The Archbishop of New Westminster, Rev. A. U. de Pencier, offered prayers.

Burrard Bridge is 3,450 feet long, built of reinforced concrete with steel centre spans ninety feet above the water, and will allow six lanes of motor traffic. Ultimately it will have a lower deck for tram and railway accommodation.

BARGE IS CAPTURED AFTER GUN BATTLE ON BANKS OF RIVER

MONTREAL, July 1.—Two hundred revolver bullets were exchanged today in a fight between Quebec Liquor Commission police and the crew of the barge Skippaloon, suspected of carrying illicit alcohol.

The battle was waged along the St. Lawrence River, just below Montreal, resulting in the capture of the ship and 1,200 gallons of alcohol. No one was wounded, apparently.

TRIAL OF CURTIS BROUGHT TO CLOSE

FLEMINGTON, N.J., July 1.—With a stiff right-about in strategy, the defence in the John Hughes Curtis trial rested its case abruptly this afternoon less than an hour after beginning it.

Curtis himself, whose veracity has been consistently attacked throughout his trial on a charge of obstructing justice in the Lindbergh case, was not put on the stand.

Drove to Ontario for Licence Refused in B.C.

WINNIPEG, July 1 (CP).—Efforts of deaf persons in British Columbia to obtain motor licenses were recounted at the triennial convention of the Western Canada Association of the Deaf here by David Pelkoff, Vancouver. Until a couple of accidents in which deaf persons were careless several years ago, it was easy to get licenses, he said. Then they were cut off.

New Peace Park Dedicated

THESE photographs were taken when the Waterton-Glacier International Peace Park was dedicated under authority of the Canadian Government and United States Congress as a monument to 117 years of enduring peace and good will between the two nations. Sir Charles A. Maude, of England, delivered the dedicatory address at the colorful ceremony, and he is seen at the top, center, clapping hands of E. T. Scoyon (left), superintendent of Glacier National Park, and H. Knight (right), superintendent of Waterton Lakes National Park. The peace park idea originated with the Rotary Club of Cardston, Alberta, and was sponsored by the Rotary Clubs of Canada and the United States. The lower photograph shows Chief Two Guns White Wolf adopting Lady Mander into the Blackfoot tribe as Princess Shining Star Woman (Ko-Ski-Ki-Na-So-Ya-Ke), following the ceremonies of dedication.

Lumber Subsidy Is Encouraging Step In Trade Revival

Large Crowd Cheers Premier Talmie's Message at Saanich Conservatives' Picnic—C. H. Dickie, M.P., and H. D. Twigg, M.P.P., Given Attentive Hearing—Empire Parley Gives Hope

BRITISH Columbia will regain a market for the 29 per cent of its export lumber trade recently shut off by United States tariff action, as a result of the revival of the Dominion subsidy on lumber movements to the Orient, H. D. Twigg, M.P.P., told Saanich Conservatives yesterday, at a well-attended annual outing at Mount Douglas Park.

W. O. Wallace presided, assisted by Mrs. F. O. O'Brien, general convenor, and a group of capable committees. C. H. Dickie, M.P., shared with Mr. Twigg, provincial organizer of the party, speaking in honor of the day. A crowd estimated at 1,500 persons, took part in the event, and thoroughly enjoyed the outing and an excellent programme of sports and other entertainment.

GIVES PREMIER'S MESSAGE
Delivering Premier Talmie's message as to the success of the British Columbia lumber delegation in having re-established the subsidy, Mr. Twigg told what was at stake. The lumber industry had $270,000,000 invested in plant, equipment, and otherwise in the province, and had a normal payroll of $50,000,000 yearly.

Loss of the United States market meant forfeiture of from 26 to 29 per cent of lumber business done by the Province. It was vital to re-establish this, and China offered the best opportunity. Because low grades of lumber are concerned, the subsidy was necessary to enable any movement to take place in volume in this trade, he said. The Premier's message was cheered.

Prince Is Recovering From Chill

LONDON, July 1 (CP).—The Prince of Wales continues to make good recovery from the chill he suffered yesterday, which prevented him from personally addressing the guests at the Dominion Day dinner last night. He will remain in bed, however, until all effects of the indisposition have disappeared.

Sir Stanley Hewitt, the King's physician, saw him today.

BRITISH MEMBER TO RESIGN SEAT

LONDON, July 1 (AP).—Otho Nicholson, Conservative member of the House of Commons for the Abbey division of Westminster, London, has decided to resign his seat.

The Conservative stronghold first elected him in 1924, and he was returned by acclamation in the general elections last October.

Franklin D. Roosevelt Nominated Democratic Presidential Candidate

Governor of New York Given Sweeping Majority on Fourth Ballot

JOHN N. GARNER MAY BE NAMED RUNNING-MATE

CHICAGO, July 1 (CP).—Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Governor of New York, is the choice of the Democratic Party to defeat Herbert Clark Hoover in the United States presidential election next November. He was nominated tonight on the fourth ballot by a vote of 945. It is expected Governor John N. Garner, of Texas, will be nominated for vice-president tomorrow.

Scenes of enthusiasm attended Roosevelt's victory. The parade of state delegations around the floor of the vast auditorium, with the songs and cheers, furnished the traditional spectacle.

Roosevelt, however, was the candidate of the more sedate section of the party, the serious-minded Liberals from the South and the West. The more vociferous delegates, the galleries who filled last night's twelve-hour session with shouts and howls, were disappointed in their endeavor to stop the Governor, and, in consequence, the victory demonstration, while spontaneous and well sustained, lacked the unrestrained Sengalese emotionalism which would have marked the nomination of, say, Al Smith, the darling of Democratic hero worshippers.

The break in the ranks of the stop-Roosevelt forces came early in the afternoon. The second round of the stop-Roosevelt forces came early in the afternoon.

TWO DROWN AS BOAT CAPSIZES

Motor Stalls in Rough Weather—Non-swimmer Takes Friend to Death

FORT FRANCES, Ont., July 1 (CP).—Two men were drowned and two others narrowly escaped when the motor boat in which they were riding on Rainy River capsized today. The dead are Peter Johnson and Ray Cathcart.

All four young men were from Barwick, and it was near there the accident occurred. The boat's motor stalled in a heavy sea and the craft capsized when it was caught in a squall.

Eyewitnesses said Johnson could not swim and, in his excitement, caught hold of Ray Cathcart, who was clinging to the overturned boat. With difficulty the latter freed himself and then Johnson caught Cathcart. Cathcart was a good swimmer but was unable to cope with Johnson's frantic struggles and both went down together. Ralph McArthur, the fourth man, swam ashore.

Johnson was principal of the Barwick Consolidated Public School. Witnesses said all four men could have been saved had they clung to the boat.

Attackers Repelled By Defence Forces In All-Night Battle

Mainland Troops Are Forced to Retire After Making Successful Landing at Moodyville—Well-Planned Defence

SLIPPING quietly into the calm waters of Brentwood Arm aboard His Majesty's Canadian ships Skeena, Vancouver and Armentieres, military forces of Vancouver and Mainland points were able to stage a successful landing at the ferry wharf at Moodyville, to commence operations against Vancouver Island forces, in the annual military manoeuvres, staged outside Victoria during the early hours of yesterday morning. The landing was effected at 2:26 a.m.

LOCAL AVIATOR DAMAGES PLANE

VANCOUVER, July 1.—British Columbia aviator demonstrated in convincing fashion this afternoon that they are as skilful and light of touch as any pilots in the world.

One minor mishap marred the afternoon. Ernest Eve, sportsman pilot of Victoria, had the misfortune to damage his "flying" machine, the Flyabout, which turned over on its nose while taxiing. Mr. Eve was not injured, but his machine will probably not be able to resume its place in the show until Monday at Victoria. The propeller was smashed and the axle damaged.

Two well-known British Columbia pilots shared the afternoon's honors. Hal Wilson, of Vancouver, Aero Club of British Columbia instructor, and Maurice McGregor, of Victoria. Each gave breath-taking exhibitions of skill at the controls.

Bishop of Norwich Preacher at Special Canadian Service

LONDON, July 1 (CP).—The moral example and atmosphere of the Imperial Conference at Ottawa might in the long run be of greater value than any strictly commercial agreements that are concluded, declared Rt. Rev. Bertram Pollock, Bishop of Norwich, in his sermon at the Dominion Day service today in the Mercers' Hall Chapel in Cheapside.

The special service was attended by prominent Canadians in London and, among others, by the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayress of London, with the London sheriffs, in full civic regalia.

This afternoon Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner, and Mrs. Ferguson held a Dominion Day reception at Canada House.

Victoria Junior Doubles Oarsmen Set New Record

Bill Dillabough and Hugh Francis Make Remarkable Time in Winning N.P.A.A.O. Event—Vancouver Crews Take Four Races at Elk Lake—Kelowna Girls Show Ability

A RECORD set two years ago by Dan Moses and Ray Ditchburn, and itself considered remarkable, was lowered yesterday at the thirty-seventh renewal of the North Pacific regatta at Elk Lake, when the junior doubles crew of Bill Dillabough and Hugh Francis, of the J.B.A.A., raced over the regulation distance of one mile and 550 yards in 7:19.3-5. The previous mark was 8:09.1-5.

The time of this race was considered extraordinarily good and officials of the meet declared it to be the outstanding performance of many years. The mark was set on rough waters and was the signal victory of the J.B.A.A. for the day. Yesterday's opening events were watched by many hundreds. The shore line of the new Elk Lake course was lined with spectators, and although the finishes were mostly decisive, some fine racing was witnessed. Races were run off promptly as scheduled and not the slightest delay occurred.

VANCOUVER TAKES LEAD
The Vancouver Rowing Club gained the lion's share of the honors and rolled up a fine lead in the aggregate. The Mainland oarsmen won the junior singles, 140-pound singles, junior fours and 140-pound doubles. J.B.A.A. won the junior doubles and Kelowna the women's fours. Today will see the crack senior crews in action and a huge crowd is expected. Although the time made in the junior doubles by the J.B.A.A. crew was the talk of the day, the triumph of Vancouver Rowing Club in the junior fours was the big feature. Three crews faced the starter in this event and the race was a gruelling one throughout. At the halfway mark Vancouver held a slight lead over J.B.A.A. and Kelowna, and at the three-quarter mark the Mainlanders still held their lead. Then the battle took place. Vancouver's stroke increased his time and slowly gained on the J.B.A.A. crew and Kelowna. With an inside lane and through the last quarter, Vancouver won by a narrow margin.

NEW HIGHWAY DECLARED OPEN
First Road to Connect Ontario and Manitoba Receiving Traffic

KENORA, Ont., July 1 (CP).—Ontario and Manitoba joined hands today in a unique Dominion Day celebration. The natal day of the Dominion of Canada was chosen for the formal opening of the first highway to connect the two provinces.

Hundreds of Winnipeggers and people from other parts of Manitoba motored to the Interprovincial boundary, and practically the entire population of the Lake of the Woods area turned out to join the programme of sports and entertainment arranged by the two towns of Kenora and Keewatin.

Owing to the limited amount of space available where the highway crosses the boundary, only an official party witnessed the cutting of the silken ribbons strung across the road.

"Cyclone" Smith's Accident Is Fatal

WILLIAMS LAKE, July 1 (CP).—Lloyd Smith, thirty-seven, arena manager, injured at the first session of the stampede here when his horse fell, crushing him, died last night.

Deceased, who was racing near here, was a well-known star rodeo rider, having participated in rodeos in Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, Alberta and British Columbia. He was born in Riverside, Wash., and came to the Cariboo in 1919 with his parents.

British Prime Minister Confident in Loan Plan

LONDON, July 1 (CP).—Confident the holders of the British war loan bonds would respond to the Government's appeal to convert them to lower interest rates "with the same good will and patriotism which the British people have always shown when a great national effort is required," was expressed by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald in a message from London, read over the broadcasting network tonight by Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, acting Prime Minister. Success of the gigantic conversion scheme, announced in the House of Commons last night as a means of effecting a net saving of about £7,000,000 through reduction of interest from 5 to 3-1/2 per cent, would mean a large reduction in the burden of the national debt and a striking enhancement of British credit, declared the Prime Minister.

Of the war loans which it is hoped to convert from 5 to 3-1/2 per cent, a total of approximately ten billion dollars is outstanding. The gross saving thus to be effected in 1932 is $130,000,000.

ELEVEN LOST IN COLLISION OFF EASTNET

Windjammer Sinks Too Rapidly for Rescue of Her Crew

FIFTEEN SAVED AND LANDED IN IRELAND

COBH, Irish Free State, July 1 (AP).—The big four-masted windjammer Melbourne and the faster Seminoles were in collision today off Fastnet Light, and eleven men of the Melbourne's crew were drowned before the Seminoles could rescue them.

Fifteen of the bark's crew were saved, however, and transferred to a tug for disembarkation here. The Seminoles was slightly damaged at the foremast. The Melbourne sank.

CAUSE NOT KNOWN

The cause of the accident was not immediately known. The area of the Fastnet Light is on the North Atlantic steamship travel zone, and is usually filled with traffic bound in both directions.

The Melbourne is one of the Finnish-owned craft in the Australian wheat trade. Several such vessels are in service and usually race each other from destination to destination. The bark was bound for British ports with grain from Australia when she was sunk.

TEN DEAD IN BOMBAY RIOTS

Casualties Heavy When Enmity of Moslems and Hindus Flares Up

BOMBAY, India, July 1 (AP).—The enmity between Moslems and Hindus, which has long harassed police authorities throughout India, broke out into riots yesterday and today, which resulted in ten deaths and a casualty list of more than two hundred.

So fierce were the religious combats that all shops and markets of Bombay were forced to close, and armed police took control of the streets of the city.

The cause of the initial outbreak was not immediately determined, but fuel was added to the flame when 1,000 Moslem mourners started a funeral procession through a Hindu section of the city.

Many clashes flared and six times police had to fire on mobs before they could disperse them and stop the incidental looting.

Three Dead In German Outbursts

BERLIN, July 1 (AP).—Political riots in many German cities resulted today in three deaths and injuries to at least forty-two persons.

There were many outbreaks in the Ruhr Basin, one of the worst being at Hattingsen, where Communists and Hitlerites battled, causing a casualty list of two dead and thirty injured.

A Nazi in Schoenberg, a Berlin suburb, shot two men who tried to take a party to the cinema. In Cologne a Nazi shot three men, killing one of them. At Othiga four men were wounded during a Communist raid on a headquarters, and at Walsum, Nazis and members of the Reichsbanner organization had a battle in which four persons were dangerously knifed. There were other riots with casualties at Bremen, Stuttgart and Gotha.

Collapse Certain If Debts Unpaid

MONTREAL, July 1 (CP).—"If Great Britain carries out her threat to impose additional tariff duties on Irish imports in lieu of annuities payments, in six months there will be an economic collapse in Ireland. It will have to pay its debts to Great Britain," said Lord Rothermere, British publisher, here tonight.

Sinclair Rejoices in Sunny Happiness of Penang's Population

Grows Romantic Amid Scenes of Tropical Loveliness Despite Whole Street of Dentists, Elephant-Eating Crocodiles and Some Sainly Serpents

By GORDON SINCLAIR
(Special to The Colonist. Copyright, 1932.)

PENANG, Straits Settlements, May 7.—If you happen to be one of those romantic seekers after adventure, craving the story book South Seas of full moons, beauty, salty breezes sighing through the palms, carefree women and healthy men, pick Penang.

Here live the children of the sun. Happy, clean and healthy. Charlie Chaplin is the native saint, and the laughter of the outdoor sport for the poor. The rich and purple giant go in for jeweled teeth in a big way, which starts us on our pilgrimage. Yip Lem, whose grin measured thirteen inches across from ear to ear, set himself up as my prime minister today and solemnly greeted the dawn with the invitation: "Your lordship will drive by the place of the snakes and then to the Mountain of Paradise—yes?"

That sounded too exciting to miss. A Chinese boy came slapping into the room with a great bowl of tropical fruits. Mangoes, soft and purple, giant papayas, luscious mangoes. Hot papaya, what a place. We rolled away from the Dutch club to the place of the dentist. A whole street of shops stood there, with black, yellow and half-caste dentists energetically drilling, jerking, scrubbing and otherwise manhandling teeth. Hundreds of patients, all sitting at the sidewalk edge, having things done to their teeth. Mostly they were being dyed. Green was the favorite color, purple ran a close second, and some picked red. The real high hoop-doopers go in for green teeth, because they are the most expensive.

DENTISTRY ON THE HOOK

Some of the dentists had regular chairs as we know them at home, some had ordinary kitchen seats with a lot of gadgetry sitting around on wicker stools, and some—mostly women dentists—did acrobatics while their patient patients squatted on the floor. Having gold, green or purple teeth is the sign of the big shot here in the orchid lands, and a man has to study more than eight months before he can become a dentist.

There were runners out from most of the shops coaxing new business inside, and one master of molar had a spool outside braying and bellowing and holding up sample bottles of tooth dye for home use. A wheezy brown car sporting huge brass lights and nondetachable rims roared and coughed black smoke behind me as the driver shouted an invitation to abandon a rickshaw and have a real ride. There were other up-to-date machines around, but I climbed into this antique and we chugged noisily out into the dense jungle. Penang is a small island. You'll never find it on your map, but we roared through the orchid lands for mile after mile while great gongs set up on hills announced our coming.

We climbed higher and higher as the car whined and groaned. From time to time we'd stop as the two cylinders decided to rest. Then the workers from the palm fields came out and gave us a push. At last we reached a dhole ghat or laundry house, where women in the gaudiest clothes you'd ever seen were pounding and slapping papa's spare shirt on jagged rocks set there for the apparent purpose of ripping off the buttons. For every woman standing knee-deep and slapping clothes there would be two children running around in glee, and three lazy motionless but menacing crocodiles sprawled in the musky water.

CROCODILE EATS ELEPHANT

Don't the crocodiles ever take the babies? I asked. "Not often, your lordship."

"But there are thousands of them—what do they eat?" "Sometimes fish, sometimes dog, sometimes elephant."

"Elephant? How can a crocodile eat an elephant?" "Sometimes elephant die, Indian man cut up elephant, put elephant in ghat. Crocodile eat elephant." Why bother with an incinerator when crocodiles come cheap?

We rolled on farther through the jungle, occasionally passing a lordly-looking Sikh policeman on horseback. Even here the men of the Khyber are kings of all they see. A gong echoed across the hills as we neared the shrine of the sacred snakes. Women came clattering down granite steps to put garlands or orchids about my neck, and when I offered them a tip they refused with a pleasant speech. By the time the steps into the shrine and was disappointed. A few Chinese were praying to a hundred or so green and yellow serpents, but the snakes were fat, lazy brutes bloated up with eggs and so sleepy they wouldn't stir.

SNAKES DISDAIN EGGS

Eggs were offered me to feed the holy twisters with, but the snakes wouldn't pay attention. The chief priest realized this was no way to treat a stranger, so he commanded the appearance of a hungry python which was drawn by the rope and invited to dine. I placed a couple of eggs before the thing, but he turned away and sought a dark corner. When I stepped back far enough to give this saintly serpent a wiggle he came out again, put a tiny pin prick of a hole into the egg and dined it without cracking the shell.

The temple had a pleasant, dreamy smell of incense and wood smoke, but it did stir up some enormous fat centipedes. As I understand centipedes at home, they're about an inch long, and yellow. These were seven to eight wiggling inches long, black, and faster than greased lightning.

EASTERN NICKELODEON

We came across a trolley line where men in vast hats were pushing other men in small hats at two miles an hour, and a second trolley line run by electricity on the pay you don't ride principle. By using your nickel in the slot you complete the electrical circuit and the car ambles along for a nickel's worth and no farther. As I understand centipedes at home, they're about an inch long, and yellow. These were seven to eight wiggling inches long, black, and faster than greased lightning.

MUST CURTAIL COSTS

Mr. Twigg sounded a warning note in connection with the 1932 unemployment relief administration. He had been informed by Hon. J. W. Jones, that if the Province was obliged to continue relief for the winter of 1932 and 1933, it would be faced with a cost of $8,000,000 for this year alone. There was no alternative, he said, but to cut down.

At the time of the times that blame fell indiscriminately on governments, banks and other institutions in the public eye, he continued. For the Dominion and Provincial Governments he would have no aggregation of men could have more sincerely tried to guard the welfare of the people, and none had been so free from even a breath of scandal during their terms of office as the last few years. For the banks he would say that Canada had a right to be proud of institutions that stood up without flinching against the most severe demands of a century.

CONCESSIONS OFFERED

Canada is prepared to make definite concessions at the Imperial Economic Conference, to uphold her part in the British Commonwealth of Nations, and to pave the way for a resumption of trade satisfactory to all concerned. C. H. Dickie, M.P., declared in the course of a brief address. The conference was a real move towards efforts to vinify the tangle of international commerce.

No government, no matter how powerful, could single handed effect any solution of an aliment that was world wide, he continued. It helped nothing to deny the existence of 25,000,000 persons displaced from employment around the world, and the fact had to be faced that millions of these would not again reclaim their former positions even when times did improve. Machinery had displaced manual labor to the extent that had to be recognized. He predicted an industrial future of shorter working hours, with populations largely living on the land instead of congregating in the cities.

PATIENCE IS NEEDED

The Dominion Government, under Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, was guiding Canada steadily at a time of world depression. The Dominion had not defaulted on a single dollar of its obligations; its banking structure was sound, and an unfavorable trade balance of $400,000,000 had been stemmed. Patience on the part of the people, and courage to withstand a little further trial, would see Canada safely out of the trouble, Mr. Dickie predicted.

There was a sincere hope, also, that at the Imperial Conference, Canadian lumber exports to the United Kingdom and other Empire destinations would be capable of extension. Britain had imported about 50 per cent of her softwood requirements from this continent from the United States, and it was not too much to expect that British Columbia would receive fresh benefit from any co-ordination of trade into Empire channels.

In the last depression, 1921, the present leader of the Opposition had gone to England and had secured a commendation from the large crowd in attendance. Riding ponies, coconut shells, swimming, foot races, and a variety of games were offered something to the taste of everyone. Sports and other events were well organized and run off without hitch.

The regatta of Premier S. F. Tolmie and Hon. R. H. Poole, K.C., both of whom were unavoidably out of town, were conveyed to the meeting. W. O. Wallace presided. Others on the platform included Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Dickie, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Twigg, Lindley Crease, K.C., Mrs. Leonard Andrews and Mrs. F. F. Osborn.

tonight's session with the announcement by William Gibb McAdoo, of California, that his delegation pledged to John Nance Garner, Speaker of the House of Representatives, that if he was elected, he would support Roosevelt for president.

The issue turned on whether or not the Dominion Government had advanced at that time its share of municipal costs in British Columbia; it being later proved beyond question that the federal and provincial governments had not.

The issue was decided in view of the dead-end reached this morning, that left Roosevelt 88 short of the necessary 770 votes, to release its members.

The galleries roared their approval in vain. Immediately the California flag, a yellow bear on a blue ground, was gently waved, and the standards of the Roosevelt states moved from their places into the aisles, the organ struck up the favorite of the convention, "Happy Days Are Here Again," and a demonstration was on.

TEXAS DELEGATES JOIN

When a Texas standard was rushed to the platform, indicating the release of its delegates from the necessity of voting for Garner, the issue was virtually closed.

The fourth ballot followed. Despite two major errors in tactics, the strategy of the Roosevelt captives was successful.

Realizing the Governor could not obtain sufficient votes to gain him the two-thirds on the first ballot, Roosevelt's board of strategy had proposed the abrogation of the two-thirds rule. From this position they were forced to retreat. This morning they underestimated the personal popularity of Smith, whose collection of 201 votes on the first ballot nearly overtook the Roosevelt band wagon.

TACTICS PROVE PERFECT

Under the precise and arbitrary hand of Chairman Walsh, however, their tactics during the voting were perfect. Walsh held the convention in all-night session, permitted adjournment at the psychological moment, and the Roosevelt lieutenants were successful.

MANY EVENTS ARE ARRANGED

Second Day of Holiday Celebration Has Wide Appeal With Varied Sports

Victoria enters upon the second stage of its holiday celebration today with a programme of attractions as varied as those that were supported by the public yesterday. Today's events range from lawn bowling to a regatta and an official dance.

The celebration will not conclude until Monday night, when the air pageant is held at the Gordon Head airport. On Sunday, patriotic services have been arranged in the various city churches at 11 a.m., while at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon a concert will be given at Beacon Hill Park by a symphony orchestra, under the leadership of William Tickle.

Today's programme opens with an interclub lawn bowling tournament at Beacon Hill Park at 2 o'clock. Following this a regatta will be held at Elk Lake, commencing at 2:30 o'clock, and at 6 p.m. Victoria All Stars will play against an Everett baseball team at the Royal Athletic Park.

The day's activities will be brought to a close with a dance at the Shrine Auditorium, where Mayor David Leeming will present the trophies to the winners of the Elk Lake regatta.

GROWS UP AFTER THOUSAND YEARS

Parish With Rector But No People Has Been Built Up Gradually Since War

A little group of bungalows, four and a half miles from Gravesend, on the road to Rochester, which has grown up gradually since the war, has now brought into reality a place which has existed in records for hundreds of years.

Merston is its name. Until these bungalows were built, Merston was a place without people, a parish without parishioners or church. Yet it has had a rector for about 1,000 years.

The rector, the Rev. George Mennie, who also holds the living of Milton-Next-Gravesend, now has a small flock. But Milton church is more than four miles away from them, whereas they are within a quarter of a mile of Hingham church.

Mr. Mennie said to a Daily Mail reporter: "The parish of Merston must be without parallel in this country. Until recently it was a 'sinecure living' for perhaps more than 1,000 years, although there is no trace of there ever having been a church or village there. Probably, it was once a hamlet of wooden shacks with a church."

"When I was inducted into the living of Merston, the ceremony took place in a field, among the cows and sheep, my only parishioners. Now there is a small population."

"I shall have to pay an official visit to my parishioners at Merston to tell them they should go to church, but that there is no need for them to come all the way to Milton."

"Probably when I resign, the parish of Merston will be incorporated with that of Hingham."

In the clergy list Merston is described as a "sinecure living" in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, with an income of £26 gross and 660 net.

Protestant and Roman Catholic divine services will be held at the camp tomorrow morning, after which a general muster parade and inspection will take place.

Mr. de Valera remarked with an enigmatic smile.

The Government newspaper, The Irish Press, however, commented outspokenly on the British proposals. "No Irishman or Irishwoman, whatever party they belong to, is going to allow Mr. Thomas (Dominion Secretary) to dictate to us," The Irish Press said. It dubbed the British proposals "sheer economic stupidity," as Britain sells more to Ireland than Ireland sells to her.

The Government organ added: "Whatever Mr. Thomas and his ill-informed advisers may cause us to lose in one department of trade we will eventually more than make up in another."

Mr. Mennie said to a Daily Mail reporter: "The parish of Merston must be without parallel in this country. There was a sincere hope, also, that at the Imperial Conference, Canadian lumber exports to the United Kingdom and other Empire destinations would be capable of extension. Unity Under Discussion By Churches in Britain

English Presbyterians and Congregationalists
Take Preliminary Steps and Scottish General Assembly Accepts Lambeth Invitation

The British religious weeklies have been full during the past six weeks of the reports of the annual meetings of the various denominations and church societies. Though pressed by the chronic lack of money, there is no pessimism manifest in the reports, but rather of a deepened resolution in facing the tasks of the period.

Church unity occupies a front place in the deliberations. At the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland it was foremost. The invitation of the Lambeth Conference, presented by the Archbishop of Canterbury, was accepted, and in a short time these two national churches, the one of the north and the other of the south of Britain, will explore their points of agreement and disagreement with the vision below them or closer co-operation, at least. The Nonconformist press is doubtful of progress towards union, in view of the strength of the Anglo-Catholic party in the Church of England.

Congregationalists and Presbyterians in England were friendly but cautious in considering union between these two bodies. The former referred it to their congregations and county unions for discussion.

Willows and Monterey Public Schools Hold Annual Closing Exercises.

PROMOTION LISTS

Pupils of public schools of Oak Bay concluded their term's work Thursday, and were formally dismissed for the summer vacation. F. G. Dexter, the supervising principal of the two schools, took charge of the exercises connected with the closing, attending the Willows and Monterey schools in succession.

The functions were quiet, in view of the fact that in both of the schools the entrance examinations were in progress. This necessitated a little disturbance as possible. The promotions lists were announced and the honor rolls in the schools distributed.

BRITAIN'S CONVERSION LOAN

Britain's loan launched yesterday is to convert the 1917 5 per cent War Loan of £2,000,000,000 by a new issue at 3 1/2 per cent. It is by far the greatest financial move of the National Government since the suspension of the gold standard. It is second only in importance to that event and to the institution of a tariff policy which went into effect on March 1. It is, in fact, a financial undertaking greater than any hitherto launched, even in a proportionate sense, by any nation. What it indicates is that the British Government believes the time is ripe for a new declaration of self-confidence. As Mr. Neville Chamberlain says, "Britain has recovered her freedom of action in monetary matters."

The new conversion issue has been in prospect for several months. The Government was waiting for the propitious moment which has now arrived. At present money is abundant and cheap, and for some time past has been flowing steadily into high-class British funds. There is every thing in fact in favor of the conversion policy now adopted, and it has received the unanimous sanction of the House of Commons irrespective of party. The great 5 per cent War Loan of 1917 has hung like a millstone round the neck of the British people. There is no shadow of doubt about the success of the conversion to a lower rate of interest.

What the Government is doing will enable trade and industry to refund their dear loans into cheaper loans, and will assist in the conversion of short-term industrial obligations into long-term issues. What is perhaps as important as anything from the governmental standpoint is that the new financial measure will add immeasurably to the strength of the budget position, and, as well, it will prove a big factor in reviving that confidence which is so necessary to the restoration of trade.

POLITICS IN UNITED STATES

The Democratic Party of the United States has gone on record in favor of the repeal of Prohibition and modification of the Volstead Act. There is a tautological inference in this plank of the platform, for the latter is a sine qua non of the former. The Democrats, moreover, have chosen Mr. Franklin D. Roosevelt for their candidate for President, and so Mr. Roosevelt must campaign to wipe out the Eighteenth Amendment. Superficially it would appear that the issue set for the election of next November is that of Drys versus Wets. It is nothing of the kind, however, for the Republicans favor the submission of the issue of repeal of Prohibition to the individual States, whereas the Democrats support action by the Federal Government.

The attitude of both major political parties in the United States does not alter the Constitution of that Republic. The Eighteenth Amendment can only be repealed by an affirmative vote of two-thirds of the States of the Union. On that account the plank adopted by the Democrats means no more than putting that party on record as favoring repeal. The wiping out of the Eighteenth Amendment is a matter for the States to decide collectively. Neither the Republicans nor the Democrats have voiced their belief that the Constitution itself should be changed. Thus, what ostensibly will be a main issue at the forthcoming Presidential election has the effect of terminating a problem which has been neither party, as a party, can solve. The solution rests with the States, two-thirds of which have to reach a favorable decision for the repeal of Prohibition.

Mr. Roosevelt is probably the strongest candidate the Democrats could have selected for the Presidential fight. He has somehow lacked emphasis in his pronouncements, perhaps being afraid of giving offence in any particular direction. He has a good record as Governor of New York State, and, at least, he is the one candidate whom the Democrats could have chosen whose entry to the lists will not split that party. A platform has been prepared on his behalf. It contains some specific planks, and very naturally stresses ways and means to meet present economic problems. It opposes any cancellation of war debts, and to that extent is not calculated to afford any particular consolation to those who are anxious to remove one of the main causes which have promoted world depression. Probably that demand is largely in the course of the Presidential campaign because the domestic problem of depression because the domestic Presidential campaign bids fair to overshadow all others, even the personalities of the Presidential candidates. The underlying belief of the people as a whole that the present administration at Washington has grappled too weakly with the problems of the time will be of very vital assistance to the Democrats in the campaign upon which they are now launched.

ENVIRONMENTAL CAUSES

Sir Herbert Samuel, in giving the presidential address to the British Institute of Philosophy, covered a wide range of matter dealing with the influence of philosophy on the course of events. He admits that our environment, our education, our wealth or our poverty, help to mould us; that genealogical causes give family characteristics; that each human personality is the outcome of millions of causes spreading out and stretching back through time. While saying that what a man does depends upon what he wills, and what he wills depends upon what he is, Sir Herbert does not subscribe to the belief that there is predestined crime for some individuals. In this respect he says:

"It will not do for the criminal to say that he is the product of heredity and of social conditions over which, as an individual, he has no control; that what he does is not what he wills, but what he must, and that, therefore, he should not be punished for his crimes. The policeman who arrests him might answer that he acts under a like compulsion; the judge who sentences him and the Home Secretary who keeps him in duration vile might say the same. Besides, among the very causes which affect the actions of a potential criminal is the existence of the penal law, the certainty or uncertainty of detection and the probability of suffering or escaping punishment. But, on the other hand, it being recognized that effects follow causes in human affairs as elsewhere, the sociologist will take into account those factors which produce a criminal class. He attacks poverty, illiteracy, the lack of moral instruction, bad housing, excessive drinking, the breeding of mental defectives. He knows that, so far as he succeeds in that attack, in the next and subsequent generations the ratio of criminals in the population will decline. There is much substance in the observation of Deatridge that the proper time to influence the character of a child is about a hundred years before it is born."

What Sir Herbert Samuel emphasizes is not any denial of "Intelligent foresight and purposive striving," but that reason and purpose on the part of the individual come into the chain of phenomena. His position is similar to that of Spinoza, that, "this freedom of man's will consists only in this, that men are aware of their own desires and ignorant of the cause by which those desires are determined." In other words, there is a relativity of free will. Freedom of choice is real, but were it possible for man to set himself from the Divine standpoint and set in the cosmic scale there would be recognition of the principle of causation as well.

The economic Jeremiahs of the present day had their prototypes in the past. The Duke of Wellington, when Prime Minister, gave thanks that he would be spared "the consumption of ruin that is gathering around us." Disraeli, eighty years ago, said: "In industry, commerce and agriculture there is no hope." History belied the prognostications of both such noted men just as it will belie again the prophets of war who are now found in every coterie of society.

Open diplomacy, through the medium of international conferences, may have its good points, but the fact remains that too many such conferences prove futile in their results. There is at least an indication in these latter days that with open diplomacy the lessons of adversity are not penetrating to the extent they should into international politics.

Germany's attitude on reparations at Lausanne is governed by the fact that an election for the Reichstag is to be held in a month's time. Were Germany to admit the possibility of ability to continue paying reparations her present political disposition would seal its death warrant at the polls.

The Morning Post probably hits the nail on the head when it says: "Civilization is capable of perishing at the hands of disintegrating forces within itself, if 'God's scorch of all men governing' is evoked by their irresolution and incapacity to think or act."

False beliefs and dogmas, dealing particularly with economic affairs, are on too many lips today. Those who know least about conditions are those who propose the most drastic remedies. They are the menace to a restoration of prosperity.

TO A SMALL CHILD

Teach me, little playmate,
Teach me to be wise;
A universe of wisdom
Is cradled in your eyes
And their trustful look can give Ample faith by which to live.

Teach me, little playmate,
Teach me to be gay;
For I've felt your laughter
Lightly sweep away
Doubts and cares of heart and mind,
Musta before a golden wind.

THE PASSPORT CHAUCER

Why should an English-born man or woman residing in Canada for four or five years have to secure a passport to go back and visit the home folk in the native country of Kent or Sussex? Passports in time are quite necessary, of course, but in time of peace, as between Dominions and the United Kingdom, the only tend to keep another Government bureaucracy alive and also to restrict free and uninterrupted travel. The more travel we have between Canada and the Old Land the better.—St. Catherine's Standard.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

This sickness doth infect
The very lifeblood of our enterprise.
Honor prices me on. Yes, but if honor prices me off when I come on? How then?
—Shakespeare.

The new phase of the old Irish question has assumed another phase. Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin stated in the Imperial House of Commons that as the government of Ireland has repudiated its contractual obligations and practically declared that the Free State is an independent republic, recognizing neither the Crown nor the authority of the British government, that the Imperial government can have no further intercourse with the republican government. It may be assumed that when Mr. Baldwin makes a statement of that kind, it is made with authority.

If the government of Great Britain, therefore, declares that it can hold no further intercourse with the republican government because that government has repudiated its contractual and treaty obligations, that declaration may be assumed to apply to the Imperial Conference which will begin its deliberations on the twenty-first day of the current month at Ottawa. The De Valera government has been invited by the Ottawa government to send delegates to the Imperial Conference, has accepted the invitation and has named representatives to represent it at the conference. As a matter of courtesy the Canadian government cannot repudiate its invitation. As a matter of probable fact, the Imperial government and the republican government will both be represented at Ottawa, but the representatives of those two governments will officially not be "on speaking terms" with one another, and that embarrassing situation will constitute a new and curious phase of the old Irish question. The old Irish question will have jumped across the Atlantic Ocean and may create an embarrassing situation for the Canadian government. Everybody knows how uncomfortable a thing it is for a family when some of the members of that family are not on speaking terms with one another.

We do not know what the Ottawa government, which is primarily responsible for the Imperial Conference—because it was a bold statement made at a previous conference which made the pending Imperial Conference possible and caused the conference to be held in the capital of Canada—we do not know what the Ottawa government will do about this somewhat unexpected and embarrassing situation. Nobody knows anything about it, and we do not suppose the government will tell anybody what it purposes doing about it. The chances are the government will do nothing about it, but simply leave the matter in the laps of the gods, trusting that the delegates themselves may find a convenient way out of the difficulty. Certainly Canadians have no desire to become involved in the tangled political affairs of Great Britain and Southern Ireland.

At the same time, the claim of the representatives of Southern Ireland that the treaty which set up the Free State and involved it in contractual obligations was signed under duress does not seem to be well taken. Mr. Baldwin has stated that if there was duress on one side there also was duress on the other side, which may be interpreted as meaning that if the British government were not content with the terms under which Southern Ireland would remain a part of the British realm, owing allegiance to the Crown, it would have to be content with Ireland as a completely independent republic.

That is what De Valera claims. So that Ireland is at present as a consequence of having repudiated both the treaty and its contractual obligations. Mr. Baldwin has accepted that position and stated the consequences of it. Mr. De Valera acknowledges the position, but desires to avoid the consequences of it. Mr. De Valera wants to carry Southern Ireland out of the British Imperial realm, but hopes to retain all the advantages contingent upon remaining within the British Imperial realm; he is in the position of the small boy who cries for his cake after he has eaten it.

The president of the Free State seems to have assumed that something might happen at Ottawa which would rescue him from his dilemma and Ireland from the consequences of his leadership. But Mr. Baldwin and Mr. Thomas, speaking for the British government, have stated that there can be no negotiations at the Imperial Conference or anywhere else with representatives of a government which has both repudiated the validity of a treaty and the obligations of a signed contract. A statement has been made in the name of the British government that as the Free State has proclaimed its independence it must be prepared to accept the consequence of its exports to Great Britain being at British ports as the products of a foreign nation. If the British government takes action of that kind, the Irish delegates to the Imperial Conference, if they are seated at all, will be there as the representatives of a foreign country, and will be without status or authority. If they are recognized at all, it will be as a matter of courtesy. It is a pity that such a cloud should arise to cast a shadow of doubt or gloom over a conference which seemed so pregnant with important possibilities for Canada and the Empire.

The Rhyming Optimist

HEART OF GOLD
Life is a flower with a golden heart;
Though petals after petals drop away
As one by one the swift-winged
petals fall,
Still something of its charm and fragrance stays.
As ever wider open falls the rose,
Still heavier, more potent grows its scent.
And rare, new loveliness the hours
disclose,
Surpassing speech, yet strangely eloquent.
A flower is life; yet, as youth's
petals fall,
And flying years reach out with eager clutch,
Time is defrauded; he cannot take all.
But only graces valued overmuch;
For not until the final leaves unfold
Does it reveal its matchless heart of gold.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

BIDDING FOR A SACRIFICE

Defence bidding is one of the most interesting phases of contract. The principle governing it is that you should elect to take a penalty, provided the penalty you incur is less than you would suffer if you permitted your opponents to play it at their contract.

A hand, played in a duplicate bridge tournament in which a number of the strongest players in New York City participated, afforded opportunities for unusual defensive tactics by the North and South players against their vulnerable opponents. The hand was:

East—Dealer.

East and West vulnerable.

♠ J 9 6 5 3
♥ 9 3 2
♣ 10 7 4

♠ A K 8
♥ Q 4 4
♦ J 8 7
♣ 5 3 2

♠ Q 10 7 4
♥ A

At most tables this hand was played by South at a contract of six spades, doubled, and in one case redoubled because the South player was convinced that West, who had done considerable bidding, had nothing whatever in his hand. Surely these would have been super-psychic tactics, indeed, for a vulnerable player to use against nonvulnerable opponents.

The hand presented an interesting problem in correct bidding. East was just short of the strength needed for an opening bid. His hand, however, was almost a perfect two-suiter, and as it contained no aces, it was practically certain that some player around the table—either one of his opponents or his partner—would open the bidding, and East would then have an opportunity to disclose the picture of his hand. South, of course, had a strong hand and a two-suiter. Most Souths opened the bidding with one club. The choice between a club and a spade was fairly close, but a spade was probably more convincing, holding three and a half honor tricks and being able to support

MUST WAIT FOR NEW SUBMARINE

Craft Will Not Be Delivered to French Fleet for Months

PARIS, July 1 (U.P.).—The French Navy may have to wait another year before it gets delivery of the world's largest submarine, Surcouf, which has been undergoing tests for twelve months.

Contrary to rumors, the United Press has been informed that the trials of the undersea giant have been entirely successful. That they have lasted so long is not unusual, a big craft like the Surcouf requiring the most exhaustive tests before being placed in active service. Another twelve months may pass before the submarine cruiser will be gazed at as fit to fight.

Laid down in 1929 and launched a year afterwards, the Surcouf is 400 feet in length, while her 3,500-ton hull is nearly 1,000 tons the pride of the American Navy, V-4. Launched from the naval arsenal at Cherbourg, the home of French submarines, Surcouf passed her way out into the English Channel for the first time last summer, and has since made repeated sorties.

The grey monster came back into port recently, completing another tour of her tests. She has had speed, torpedo and ordinary firing tests, but she still must go through gruelling trials in diving before the navy experts will be satisfied.

The new boat is designed to plunge to 430 feet, about eighty feet deeper than any other submarine can sink. Her speed is sixteen knots on the surface and twelve knots under water. She has fourteen torpedo tubes and mounts powerful guns fore and aft.

Naval critics doubt if France will ever build another submarine as big. The vessel will prove a useful experiment, but navy technicians are sceptical of the value of such a giant in relation to cost of building and operation, as well as to the danger involved.

CLEVER CAST IN SOCIETY PICTURE

Film at Dominion Theatre Typifies Results When Love Overcomes Social Barriers

A unique ability to identify himself completely with the character he portrays, and of imbuing that character with perfect realism, are the secrets of Spencer Tracy's success on the screen. The noted actor, who attained enviable fame on Broadway when he created the role of Killer Mena in "The Last Mile," and who came to Hollywood as a direct result of his work in that grim play, has enacted leading parts in eight film productions in the past eighteen months.

With the most recent of these, "Sky Devils," "Disorderly Conduct," and "Young America," he has won a secure place in the estimation of film fans and a growing army of appreciative admirers. His latest appearance in "Society Girl," the Fox Films romance now showing at the Dominion Theatre, with James Dunn and Peggy Shannon as the two youngsters from opposite ends of the social world, their strange love affair and its consequences comprise the theme of the picture, which offers all these players exceptional opportunities to display their talents. Sidney Lanfield directed, with Elmer Harris writing the adaptation from the original novel and play.

ENGLISH DERBY SEEN IN FILM

World-Famous Race Is Picture Theme in Attraction at Empire Theatre

The actual decision of the English Derby is witnessed in "Devil's Lottery," the Fox picture, starring Ella Landi, now playing at the Empire Theatre. The drawing of the Calcutta Sweepstakes, in which millions are lost and won, is also seen.

The winners of the six major prizes in the sweepstakes are the principal characters appearing in the story. The owner of the winning horse, curious to study the effect of sudden riches on these people from various walks of life, invites them to spend a week-end at his castle. From this meeting, romance and thrills, comedy and even tragedy are developed.

Mrs. Landi is surrounded by a cast that includes Victor McLaglen, Alexander Kirkland, Paul Cavanagh, Beryl Mercer, Ralph Morgan and Barbara Weeks. Sam Taylor directed.

Capitol—"Behind the Mask," a story of mystery and horror, produced by Columbia Pictures, now showing at the Capitol Theatre, features an interesting mechanical device, which plays an important part in unfolding the plot. This instrument keeps members of a dope ring in communication with their powerful but mysterious leader. They work for him loyally without knowing who he is, because they know what it means to cross him. Then, they learn the identity of their phantomlike "master," but it is too late, because he kills them off in a terrifically brutal manner. Participants in this thriller include Jack Holt, Boris Karloff, Constance Cummings, Edward Van Sloan, Willard Robertson, Claude King and Bertha Mann.

Columbia—"Rider of Death Valley," the Universal action picture that stars Tom Mix at the Columbia, was actually filmed in Death Valley, the lowest bit of land in America, 200 feet below sea level, the exact locale of the Jack Cunningham story. Gold Wilson, Fred Kohler, Forrest Stanley and Mae Busch are featured in the cast. Al Rogell directed.

Playhouse—No comedy at Radio Theatre seems to be complete without Hugh Herbert in the cast. The writer, who recently turned actor, has appeared in six featured roles within the past few months, among them Radio Pictures' "Cracked Nuts," featuring Beryl Mercer and Robert Woolsey.

Romano—Slim Summerville, who is featured in Universal's comedy-satire, "See America Thirst," now showing at the Romano Theatre, has earned his own living ever since he ran away from his home in Oklahoma at the age of twelve. He has been in practically every large city in the United States and Canada. Summerville, Harry Langdon and Beryl Mercer have the featured roles in "See America Thirst."

SIDNEY ISLAND TO BE UTILIZED

Ottawa Calls for Matrons for Female Doukhobor Encampment

Possibility that at least a proportion of the women Doukhobor prisoners on the hands of the Dominion Government will be lodged in a special encampment on Sidney Island developed this week, when applications were invited through Federal agency for the posts of three penitentiary matrons in connection with the penal settlement.

Ira Dilworth, principal of Victoria High School, who is a Federal representative of the Civil Service Commission for Canada in this area, was inundated with applications yesterday from women who sought these positions. Mr. Dilworth confirmed the fact that he had been asked by Ottawa to receive applications but had not learned whether the female Doukhobor prisoners were to be placed on Pier Island or Sidney Island. As W. Pelapiece, Westminster Trust Building, New Westminster, is also taking applications for the posts.

The advertisement which appeared in local papers this week was sent direct from Ottawa, and mentioned Sidney Island in connection with the call for police matrons.

Approximately two hundred and fifty Doukhobor women are held by the British Columbia authorities for the Federal Department of Justice, under penitentiary terms extending to three years. It is inferred that some of these prisoners may be lodged on Sidney Island, though no advice to this effect have yet been received by the Provincial Police.

GOVERNMENTAL CHANGES URGED

Drastic Cut in Representation Is Asked by Ratepayers' Association

At a meeting of the executive of the Victoria Ratepayers' Association, held Thursday, many recommendations affecting governmental administration were endorsed. Most important of these was the proposal that representation in the Provincial House be cut at least 30 per cent and that the number of Cabinet Ministers be reduced.

In connection with the curtailment of representation, the executive committee suggested that the Cowichan-Newcastle riding be merged with some other Island riding, providing a similar policy was adopted throughout the province.

ECONOMY PROPOSALS

The executive also will forward resolutions to the Government, urging that no new capital expenditures be made on roads or buildings; that control of school expenditures in cities and municipalities be vested in the councils; that expenditures on education be reduced; that all school purposes be more widely distributed so as to reduce the present excessive burden on land.

Further, it was decided to urge upon the Government to dispose of all existing Government-owned enterprises, with the exception of the Liquor Control Board, and that the Government refuse to again enter into other commitments for Government ownership.

WOULD PREVENT ABUSE

In connection with social services, the executive urged that there be more rigid supervision and that regulations be amended to prevent abuse.

Anticipating a shortage in revenue at the end of the year, the association urged the Government to make drastic reductions in the costs of present excessive overhead costs of the various departments and by eliminating all services that can be regarded as not absolutely essential.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

NEW METHOD OF EXAMINING THE STOMACH

It is said that the individual who knows the value of his stomach is a good citizen. And it must be admitted that if the stomach never lets you know of its presence there can't be much wrong with it.

There is the slightest disturbance of the stomach and learning much about it without having to operate on the individual.

There is the test meal, the barium meal and the use of X-ray, and the tiny camera which takes many photographs of the inside of the stomach.

To these may now be added another method of examining the stomach by which the movements of the stomach can be recorded on a chart, just as can the movements of the heart.

Dr. N. Onodera and his associates describe a method by which the so-called hunger contractions of the stomach may be recorded. A rubber balloon is introduced into the stomach and then inflated, and in this manner it is possible to register the stomach contractions on smoked paper. The observation time is from one to four hours.

The method is simple, inexpensive, and does not require any special apparatus.

HOLIDAY IS CELEBRATED

Thousands Attend Varied Events on Dominion Day Programme

Probably the largest crowd that has ever witnessed a rowing regatta here turned out for the Dominion Day programme of the North Pacific Association of Amateur Oarsmen at Elk Lake, while thousands of other citizens gathered to meet, motor cycle rodeo, cricket and baseball.

The Elk Lake rowing course, of Henley length, was lined by more than 5,000 spectators who saw athletes from Kelowna, Vancouver, Portland, Brentwood and Victoria clubs compete for championship honors.

They also saw William Dillabough and Hugh Francis, of Vancouver, set a new record for the Henley course in the doubles. Their time was 7:19.3-5.

BASEBALL FIXTURE

Approximately 1,000 people attended the double-header baseball fixture at the Royal Athletic Park, when the visiting Everett team defeated the Native Sons of Canada, 6 to 1, in the first encounter, and were beaten by the local players, 4 to 3, in the second game.

There was a packed crowd for the intercity cricket match at the University grounds. Victoria won this game, 181 to 147 against the Vancouver team.

Nearly 500 persons attended the combination track meet and motor cycle rodeo at the Royal Athletic Park, when a "tiger" singh, an Indian strong man, gave a display of power and a weird demonstration called the "fery chub."

The many beaches adjacent to Victoria were crowded with picnickers, while Mount Douglas Park was the scene of the annual picnic of the Saanich Conservative Association.

Approximately 1,500 persons attended this event, which included a good programme of sports. Many church and Sunday school outings were held during the day.

The day's activities were brought to a close with a dance at the Crystal Garden in the evening.

NOTABLE DECLINE IN DEATH RATE

Preventive Medicine Waging Successful War Against Tropical Disease

LONDON (BUP).—The notable decline in the death rate of the tropics is largely due to the progress of preventive medicine, declared Sir Austin Chamberlain, former Foreign Secretary, speaking at the meeting which followed his election as chairman of the Council of Governors of the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine.

In 1896, he pointed out, the average death rate in tropical dependencies and colonies of the Crown was 100 per thousand of the population per annum. Last year it was between eight and nine per thousand.

"This is an immense encouragement," Sir Austin said, "but it is an encouragement to make renewed efforts, not to fold our arms and be satisfied."

DAILY LIFE IS FULL OF CHANGE

Census of Industrial Production Gives Interesting Facts of Habits in England

Women need more new shoes. Men are making them last longer. Everyone is eating more sweetmeats. There are fewer men with beards. The use of make-up by women is rapidly increasing.

These are a few of the changes in the habits of our daily life revealed by the latest report of the census of industrial production, of which particulars are quoted in The Board of Trade Journal.

The figures given are for the census of production in 1930; the comparison is with the previous census taken in 1924.

In this period there was an increase of sixteen per cent in the number of boots and shoes for women and girls' wear.

Falling Tree Hits Car

WHEN a tree in Rockliffe village, near Ottawa, was broken by the wind, a motorist had a narrow escape from death. Quick action on his part in applying his brakes, when he saw the tree falling in his direction, saved his life. The tree fell right across the radiator of his car, damaging it considerably, finally coming to a stop on the heavy electric wires across the road. The driver suffered no injuries.

FORMER ISLAND RESIDENT DIES

Mrs. Blanche Hutchinson Succumbs in East—Performed Charitable Acts

Word was received here yesterday of the death in Montreal of Mrs. Blanche Hutchinson, sixty-three years of age, who, during her short period of residence on Vancouver Island at "Swallow Field," Westholme, gathered about her many intimate friends who held her in high esteem.

Endowed with wealth, Mrs. Hutchinson was able to give wide scope to many charitable acts actuated by a kindly disposition and a deep interest in the welfare of less fortunate persons.

Her many charities were conducted in an unostentatious manner, while the medical science is indebted to her for many endowments that have made possible research work in the cause of relieving suffering humanity.

She loved outdoor life and was proud of her farm at Westholme, in which she took keen delight in supervising. "Swallow Field" is considered one of the best farms on Vancouver Island, and although Mrs. Hutchinson has been absent from this city for approximately three years, great care has been taken of the stock and the field crops maintained at their usual high standard.

FOND OF ART
Passionately fond of painting and designing, Mrs. Hutchinson has left a memento of her visit to the Island in the interior decorating of the Empress Hotel. Through her friendship with the late Lord Shaughnessy, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, she was well known by the directors of the railway and they were greatly gratified when Mrs. Hutchinson expressed a wish to make a voluntary contribution to the artistic interior setting of the Empress Hotel.

Mr. Hutchinson, husband of the deceased, was at one time general manager of the C.P.R. hotel system. Mrs. Hutchinson was a member of the well-known Pennsylvania Payne family, which owns several important coal mines in that state. Two brothers, who reside in Philadelphia, are prominently identified with the coal mining industry.

CROWD ATTENDS CHURCH PICNIC

First Baptist Annual Outing Attracts Two Hundred to Experimental Farm, Sidney

The annual picnic of the First Baptist Church, held yesterday at the Dominion Experimental Farm, Sidney, was an unqualified success. About 200 persons attended, leaving the city at 10 o'clock in the morning from the church and returning at 8:30 o'clock in the evening after a delightful day in the open.

All the details were excellently arranged, transportation being in charge of a committee comprising Bruce Lowe, G. McEwen, Arthur Brown and Nora Gibson.

On arrival at the grounds, the sports committee in charge of Len Nicholls, one of the teachers in the Sunday school, and R. W. Macintosh, the superintendent, set about the arrangements for the programme of races, which included comic events as well as keenly-contested serious races for grown-ups and children alike.

Luncheon was served at 12:30 o'clock, and supper at 8:30 o'clock. The major part of the programme taking place between times.

SAYS TARIFFS MUST BE CUT

Report of British Cotton Delegates States Reduction Essential for Trade

LONDON, July 1 (CP).—Reduction of Canadian tariffs is essential if the chief industries of the United Kingdom are to gain the volume of trade they are "entitled to," declared the report of the British cotton delegation to Canada tonight.

The cotton trade delegation has just returned from Canada and without delay presented its report to Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary of State for the Dominions.

REDUCTION ESSENTIAL
"Nothing short of a reduction of tariff levels in the Canadian market," declared the report, "will offer us the volume of trade which the chief industries of the United Kingdom are entitled to look for under the imperial preferences, in return for the risks they will undoubtedly run in their foreign markets and higher costs of living which may be unavoidable in more normal times."

The report declared that while Canadian manufacturers individually showed marked cordiality towards the abstract proposition of Empire co-operation, "as an organized body they showed marked reluctance to contemplate the slightest diminution in the level of protection against British industry."

URGES SIMPLIFICATION
The British delegation, the report said, has recommended simplification and unification of the Canadian tariff system which in its present form was an "intolerable hindrance to clear and final inter-Empire agreement."

The report stated the delegation had suggested to Canadian cotton industry representatives that the consuming power of the Canadian market, which they set at 400,000,000 yards of cloth per year, should be shared so far as possible between the cotton industries of Canada and the United Kingdom in appropriate proportions.

Hundreds of Holiday Makers Participate In Festive Frolic

Dance and Novelty Numbers Entertain Large Crowd at Crystal Garden Last Evening During Dominion Day Celebration

NEARLY 400 holidaymakers entered with true holiday spirit into the Dominion Day frolic at the Crystal Garden last evening, and swimming and dancing and a general "good time" made the affair a real success.

In addition to the general entertainment, there was an attractive programme arranged by the frolic committee, Miss Violet Fowkes' pupils appearing in several special numbers, which delighted the crowd. The first was a waltz ballet, in which the following took part: Sheila Allard, Berna Waring, Frances Patton, Peggy McDougall, Daisy Barr and Alice Harter. They were becoming white frothy frocks and large white crinolines hats.

ACROBATIC WALTZ
The second number was an acrobatic waltz by Eugene Doherty, who wore a butterfly costume of brown and gold with large butterfly wings.

Miss Sheila Allard, in a striking white and silver costume, danced a

MURDER OF HAZELMOOR

by AGATHA CHRISTIE

On a black English winter's afternoon, a party of six persons gathered at the home of Mrs. Willett and her daughter, Violet, in the village of Sittford on the fringes of Dartmoor, turned to table for an evening meal. There were six of them and one of their number, Mr. Duke, did not play cards. Seated round the table were Mrs. and Miss Willett, Mr. Duke, Mr. Hecroft who dabbled in the periscope, Ronald Gifford and Major Burnaby. For two months the Willetts had been occupying the house of Captain Joseph Trevelyan, a retired navy man, who had been unable to re-entire of twelve months a month and had taken a small house for himself at two miles from the nearest town, Exhampton, six miles distant. Major Burnaby, his friend for years, occupied one of the five cottages Trevelyan built on land near his house. The Willett guests occupied the other Trevelyan cottages. All those seated at the table in the darkened room pretended to consider table etiquette and raising a childish amusement and they had some good laughs when they received spirit messages telling of their future plans and movements. Then they were startled by a messenger that Captain Trevelyan had been murdered. Although Major Burnaby had been told that Trevelyan had been murdered upon starting on a six-mile trudge through the moor, impossible for automobiles, to Trevelyan's home.

Two and a half hours later, just before eight o'clock, Major Burnaby, a hurricane lantern in hand, his head hurricaned forward so as not to meet the blinding drive of the snow, stumbled up the path to the door of Hazelmoor, the small house tenanted by Captain Trevelyan.

The snow had begun to fall about an hour ago—great blinding flakes of Major Burnaby was gasping, emitting the loud sighing gusts of an utterly exhausted man. He was numbed with cold. He stamped his feet, blew, snorted and applied a numbing finger to the bell push.

The bell trilled shrilly.

Burnaby waited. After a pause of a few minutes, as nothing happened, he pushed the bell again.

Captain Trevelyan Lay on the Floor, Face Downwards. The Room Was in Confusion—Drawers of the Bed Pulled Out, Papers Lying About the Floor stood at his elbow. He took it up and gave the number.

But to the telephone, Captain Trevelyan gave no reply.

"Look at this," said Graves as he replaced the receiver. "And all alone in the house, too. We'd best get hold of Dr. Warren and take him along with us."

"Dr. Warren's house was almost next door to the police station. The doctor was just sitting down to dinner with his wife and was not best pleased at the summons. The snow was still falling.

"Damnable night," murmured the doctor. "Hope you haven't brought me out on a wild goose chase. Trevelyan's as strong as a horse. Never has anything the matter with him."

Burnaby did not reply.

Arriving at Hazelmoor once more, they again rang and knocked, but elicited no response.

The doctor then suggested going round the house to one of the back windows.

"Easier to force than the door," said the doctor. "There was a side door which they tried on the way, but it too was locked, and presently they emerged on the snow-covered lawn that led up to the back windows. Suddenly, Warren uttered an exclamation.

"The window of the study—it's open."

True enough, the window, a French one, was standing ajar. They quickened their steps. On a night like this one, no one in his senses would open a window. There was a light in the room that streamed out in a thin yellow band. The three men arrived simultaneously at the window—Burnaby was the first man to enter, the constable hard on his heels.

They both stopped dead inside and something like a muffled cry came from the ex-study. In another moment, Warren was beside them and saw what they had seen.

Captain Trevelyan lay on the floor, face downwards. His arms were spread wide. The room was in confusion—drawers of the bureau pulled out, papers lying about the floor. The window beside them was splintered where it had been forced open. The room was in confusion—drawers of the bureau pulled out, papers lying about the floor. The window beside them was splintered where it had been forced open.

One minute sufficed. He rose to his feet, his face pale.

"He's dead!" cried Burnaby.

The doctor nodded. Then he turned to Graves.

"It's you to say what's to be done. I can do nothing except examine the body and perhaps you'd better come. I can tell you the cause of death now. Fracture of the base of the skull. And I think I can make a guess at the weapon."

He indicated the green baize tube.

"Trevelyan always had them along the bottom of the door—keep the draft out," said Burnaby.

His voice was hoarse.

"Yes—a very efficient form of sanding."

"My God!"

"But this here—" the constable broke in, his wits arriving at the point slowly. "You mean—this here is murder?"

The policeman stepped to the table on which stood the telephone. Major Burnaby approached the doctor.

"Have you any idea," he said, breathing hard, "how long he's been dead?"

"About two hours, I should say, or possibly three. That's a rough estimate."

Burnaby passed his tongue over dry lips.

"Would you say," he asked, "that he might have been killed at five twenty-five?"

The doctor looked at him curiously.

"If I had to give a time definitely, that's just about the time I would suggest."

"Oh! My God!" said Burnaby.

Warren stared at him.

The Major felt his way blindly to a chair, collapsed on to it and muttered to himself while a kind of staring terror overspread his face.

"Five and twenty past five—Oh! my God, then it was true after all."

It was the morning after the tragedy, and two men were standing in the little study of Hazelmoor.

Inspector Narracott looked around him. A little frown appeared upon his forehead.

"Ye-es," he said thoughtfully.

Inspector Narracott was a very efficient officer. He had a quick persistence, a logical mind and a keen attention to detail which brought him success where many another man might have failed.

He was a tall man with a quiet manner, rather far away grey eyes, and a slow soft Devonshire voice. Summoned from Exeter to take charge of the case, he had arrived on the first train that morning. The roads had been impassable for cars, even with chains, otherwise he would have arrived the night before. He was standing now in

MRS. MOODY CAPTURES WIMBLEDON TENNIS TITLE

Downs Helen Jacobs 6-1, 6-3, to Regain English Net Crown

Queen of American Courts Has Little Trouble in Defeating Teammate in Final—Vines to Meet Austin Today for Men's Title—Surprises in Men's Doubles—English Team Advances

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 1 (CP).—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody won the Wimbledon women's singles tennis championship today by defeating Helen Jacobs, who ranks second to her in the United States, 6-3, 6-1.

Scoring her fifth victory in the blue riband of women's tennis, the California star, who was out of the competition last year, contented herself with a steady and conservative game.

The sensation of the day was the defeat of Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn, the United States Davis Cup pair, by the veteran French team of Jacques Brugnon and Jean Borotra. The Frenchmen were decisively the better two and won 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.

In the other semi-finals of the men's doubles, Fred Perry and George Patrick Hughes, English Davis Cup team, defeated Christian Bousset and Andre Merlin, of France, 6-4, 6-1, 6-3.

Thus there is an Anglo-French battle for the men's doubles title and an Anglo-American battle for the singles title, for which H. W. ("Bunny") Austin, of England, and Ellsworth Vines, of the United States, battle tomorrow.

Victoria Eleven Defeats Vancouver All-Stars by 34 Runs in Intercity Match—Leggatt Contributes 70 Runs for Island

In a comparatively moderate scoring game at the University School grounds yesterday, local cricketers took the Mainlanders into camp, the scores in the first innings being 181 to 147, giving the Islanders a narrow margin of thirty-four runs.

In securing this result, the Cowichan men took the lion's share of the honors, a fine batting stand by A. E. Leggatt for 70, a bright display by E. A. Rhodes for 39, and a useful contribution of 21 by E. C. Ball, being the high lights of the locals' knock.

For the visitors, Wally Scott contributed a characteristic 37 before being dismissed, Dobbie, however, got through his defence and discharged his stumps.

MAINLAND WICKETS FALL. When the Mainlanders went in to bat, wickets fell just as rapidly. Tommy Reid, who accompanied Wally Scott to the batting crease, being adjudged l.b.w. with only two on the board.

Victoria scored 99 in the second innings when stumps were drawn. Full scores:

JOE ADDISON SHOWS CLASS IN VANCOUVER

Young Victoria Track Star Wins Quarter-Mile in Sensational Style

RUSH CAPTURES BICYCLE TITLE

VANCOUVER, July 1 (CP).—

With one of the largest entry lists since its inception in 1846, including some of the Pacific Northwest's crack athletes in the track and field events, British Columbia's oldest sports day, the Caledonian Games, concluded here this evening.

Foremost among the track and field entrants were star athletes from Vancouver Island. Capturing two firsts, four seconds and three thirds, the Island contingent established an enviable record for British Columbia sports competition.

Washington entrants walked off with the majority of the weight events and the mile and half-mile runs, while Mainland stars shone in the short sprint distances and high jumping.

LOCAL STARS SHINE

In the van of the Victoria contestants was Joe Addison, sprinter, and Lew Rush, speedy cyclist. Addison romped off with the 440-yard dash in 51.3 secs. The Victoria quarter-miler was away at the gun to grab an early lead which he gradually lengthened. At the finish Addison was a good twenty yards ahead of Tony Lyttle, Vancouver, who finished in second place.

Rush captured first place in the two-mile bicycle race for the British Columbia championship. Winning his heat with a sprint that left plenty in reserve, Rush coasted along with the field in the final until he came into the stretch. The last 200 yards the Victoria pedaler spurred to come out in front. Sid Luck, Vancouver, was second and Stan Johnstone, Victoria, third.

FORBES WINS

The 100-yard dash was won by Vincent Forbes, Mainland sprinter, in 9.9 secs., which, excepting Percy Williams' record, is the fastest time in this event in the province for the past ten years. Stan Barrett, Vancouver, and Bruce Humber, Victoria, finished in second and third places, respectively.

Forbes also won the 220-yard event, just noosing out Addison, who finished second a bare two inches behind the Vancouver man. Forbes' time was 24 secs. flat.

Half-mile bicycle race—1, Frank Elliott; 2, Glen Robbins, Victoria; 3, Marchiori. Time, 1 min. 12.8-10 secs.

One mile bicycle race—1, Ken Magnall; 2, M. Robinson; 3, Glen Robbins.

220 yards—1, Vincent Forbes; 2, J. Addison, Victoria; 3, Barrett. Time, 24 secs.

Two-mile bicycle race (British Columbia championship)—1, Lew Rush, Victoria; 2, Johnson; 3, Stan Jackson, Victoria.

440 yards—1, Joe Addison, Victoria; 2, T. Lyttle; 3, H. Odium. Time, 51.3-10 secs.

Five-mile bicycle race—1, Frank Elliott; 2, Ken Magnall; 3, Lew Rush.

880 yards—1, J. Weber, Seattle; 2, Cam Cunningham, Victoria; 3, T. Hurd. Time, 1 min. 59.3-5 secs.

FINANCE - COMMERCE - MARKETS

Stock and Bond Prices Advance At Wall Street

NEW YORK, July 1.—In its last session until next Tuesday, extending through Saturday and the Fourth of July holiday, the stock market climbed almost steadily higher, finishing with a large gain than had been seen in a fortnight. They ranged from a fraction to about 2 points for leading issues.

Preholiday short covering probably had much to do with the upturn. However, firmness in bonds, especially foreign, which were stirred by hopes for Lausanne and by British loan conversion plans, provided some basis for good cheer and the market was in a frame of mind that permitted it to overlook uncertainties.

Net advances of 1 to 2 points appeared in United States Steel, American Can, American Telephone, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Public Service, New Jersey, Dupont, Allied Chemical, American Tobacco, "B" and Consolidated Gas. National Biscuit was sold in the morning, when several other leaders sagged, but fully recovered its two-point loss. United States Steel preferred rallied 3-1/2. Procter & Gamble also acted better. Transactions totaled 608,856 shares.

Foreign loans jumped into first place in bond market competition today, while domestic categories, although exhibiting improvement, were inclined to dullness.

Issues of the United Kingdom, Canada and Australia responded to the announcement of the big war conversion loan, which is expected to save Great Britain some $25,000,000 in her 1933 budget. They advanced from 1 to 4 points in relatively heavy trading.

At the same time, practically all German bonds spurted from 1 to around 5 points on reports of constructive progress at the Lausanne Conference.

Domestic railways generally advanced, substantial gains being recorded by some loans of Canadian Pacific and other carriers.

The utilities, as a whole, were slightly better. There were individual gains among the industrials.
